

Notice that the verb is always in the predicate. We call the verb the SIMPLE PREDICATE.

The duck ate a nice fish.

The COMPLETE PREDICATE is the verb and all the adverbs and other words that go with it to say something about the subject.

When we say PREDICATE, we usually will mean just the verb, the simple predicate.